“Swift Transition”

“You are just a vapor that appears for a little while and then vanishes away” (Jas. 4:14)

The transient nature of life is something about which we should need little reminder. We rush about in a frenzied state of chaos, without realizing that our every move is dictated by the clock. One day we may awaken to discover that life has passed us by and the things which we once counted so dear and for which we labored so mightily have faded into insignificance. Indeed, “Time is filled with swift transition” and its passing should cause us to change our perspective about what is truly important in life.

William James is attributed with having said, “The greatest use of life is to spend it on that which will outlast it.” Scripture exhorts us to make the most of our opportunities (Eph. 5:16; Col. 4:5). But how can we make the most of our time if we expend all our energy on things related to the “here and now” while investing very little on matters related to the next life? Why not live for the eternal God? Why not practice the greatest virtue – the everlasting virtue of love? (1 Cor. 13:13). Why not be devoted to prayer offered to the Father through Jesus who lives forever “to make intercession for us”? (Heb. 7:25; Col. 4:2). Why not read the only words which will “never pass away” (Mt. 24:35). Only when we spend our time and energy on these matters of everlasting importance will we be prepared for that day when time will be no more.

Spotlight on Missions

A very informative update from Mani concerning the work in India has been posted on our Missions' Board.

What the Bible Contains

It contains light to direct you, food to support you, and comfort to cheer you. It is the traveler's map, the pilgrim's staff, the pilot's compass, the soldier's sword, and the Christian's charter.
