PEACE WITH GOD

Isn't it ironic that David, a man forbidden from building a house for God because he was a "man of war" and bloodshed (1 Chr. 18:3), should have penned these words: "Seek peace and pursue it"? (Ps. 34:14). Isn't it also ironic that Peter, who so quickly sliced off the right ear of the high priest's slave (Jn. 18:10), would quote David's words as he urged his brethren to live together in harmony? (1 Pet. 3:11). Who has not, at one time or another, admonished others to do what we, ourselves, have failed to do at one time in our lives?

Peace is a particularly difficult pursuit because it requires of us a high level of introspection and self-sacrifice. The same Savior who showered His blessing on peacemakers (Mt. 5:9); also warns us that He "did not come to bring peace, but a sword" (Mt. 10:34). While Jesus is called "the Prince of Peace" (Is. 9:6); He brought peace through His blood on the cross (Eph. 2:13-18). Peace comes at a cost. While we are told to "pursue peace with all men..." (Heb. 12:14); it is not always possible to obtain our objective (Rm. 12:18). This is because some do not want peace. Peace at the cost of compromise is abandonment of the faith (Jude 3).

In a world of moral and political upheaval, peace comes at a high cost. Slander, ill will, and hostility might be directed our way, even from members of our own family. This is the "sword" Jesus warned us about. Silence is denial (Mt. 10:32-33). Readiness is expected (1 Pet. 3:13-16). "Indeed, all who desire to live godly in Christ Jesus will be persecuted" (2 Tim. 3:12). Peace is not the absence of conflict, but the presence of God. If so, then, our focus should be on helping others make or maintain peace with God (2 Cor. 5:20).
